FIVE GUESTS

Registered at the Hotel de Municipale Friday Evening and Are Assigned to Rooms By Mayor Shields—Violated Rule Number One.

Five guests were registered at the Hotel de Municipale Friday evening. They had arrived at different hours during the evening and were given temporary lodgings in the Chamber of Horrors in the Hall of Sighs. Mayor P. H. Shields appeared at the desk in the office at eight o'clock Saturday morning for the purpose of looking over the registered names, examining the guests and assigning them to the permanent quarters they are to occupy during their visit.

All of the five guests were found to be guilty of an infraction of the rules of the grounds and preserves in charge of the officiate. The rule violated was number one which prohibits any person from becoming intoxicated while on the grounds. The mayor notified the guests of their misdemeanor and as all acknowledged their guilt he instructed his assistants to show them to their rooms and ordered them to remain there for three days each in close confinement. One of the peculiarities of this hotel and in which it differs from most hostleries, is that when a guest pays his bill he is turned out of the place. If he is broke and is unable to pay the bill he is treated as a guest and is given the best accommodations the establishment affords. No person can register at the hotel unless he violates one of the rules.

In other words five plain drunks were sent to jail at the regular morning session of police court Saturday in default of the payment of three dollar fines.

Who can not stand the shocking strain of laxatives and cathartics are especially fond of Little Early Risers. All persons who find it necessary to take a liver medicine should try these easy pills, and compare the agreeable pleasant and strengthening effect with the nauseating and weakening conditions following the use of other remedies. Little Early Risers cure biliousness, constipation, sciatic headache, jaundice, malaria and liver troubles. Sold by Stone & Mercer.

COUGHANOUR & FRAZEE'S

Refined Vaudeville Railroad Circus—A Glistening Galaxy of Vaudeville Stars

Among the many features are the Martinetti Brothers, sensational gymnasts, pantomimists and les-jolie comiques; positively the most daring acrobatic feat ever presented on a vaudeville stage. The Sanleys, character sketch artists, farce comedy, mimicry, etc., in the original creation entitled, "Mr. and Mrs. Blinks." Haney & Haney, the comedy midgets, introducing song and dance, solo, clog, dancing, etc., in their original sketch "The Dancing Master." Feasley, comedy juggler and club manipulator, a great novelty feature, can juggle anything and manipulate everything. Dracula, artistic posing and aerial contortion; the world's greatest novelty, the most graceful equilibristic specialty that can be produced. Bean & Hamilton, acrobats and gymnasts; positively the greatest in their line; highest forward somersault ever performed without use of net. Our band of seventeen pieces is a feature. Street parade every morning. Orchestra band will furnish music throughout the entire performance. Three nights only. Prices 15 and 25 cents. Will exhibit at Clarksburg 3 days commencing Monday, May 16.

Quick Arrest.

J. A. Guldge, of Verbena, Ala., was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Buckler's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kills pain. 25c at Frank G. Bland's drug store.

STATION REOPENS

For the Enrollment of Men For the Army With Private Sketh, of Parkersburg, in Charge.

Sergeant George W. Hawthorne has returned from Elkins, where he conducted a recruiting station three weeks. In that time he enlisted twenty-three persons. He will go to Weston Monday and open a station there and at Buckhannon and Sutton, dividing his time among these three places. The station here will be reopened in the federal building Monday with Private C. F. Sketh, of Parkersburg, in charge permanently.

BEAN IN CHILD'S EAR

Caused Intense Suffering and It Was So Labeled That An Operation Had to Be Performed to Remove It.

Little Wilford Kinsloe, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Kinsloe, of Lee street, has just passed through a very painful and distressing experience. While playing a day or so ago a bean became lodged in the little fellow's ear. After a short time the object in the ear began to pain him and all efforts to dislodge it proved futile so the parents decided to take the child to a doctor. This was done and the doctor could not locate the bean. The child continued to suffer from it and the pain continually increased in severity. All efforts to alleviate the child's suffering were in vain. The baby was taken to a doctor a second time but the physician could do nothing and through his advice it was decided to have an operation performed on the child. This was done Friday evening. The baby was taken to the offices of Dr. Louchery and Ogden where an operation was performed, the child being placed under an anesthetic. The operation was a successful one, the bean was taken from the ear and the little fellow's sufferings were ended.

THE LAW WELL IS GOOD PRODUCER

In the Salem district, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its second test well on the A. S. Evans farm into the strata sand 35 feet, and has developed no oil or gas.

The same company has drilled its test well on the John Hession farm through the strata sand, and found neither oil nor gas.

In the fifth sand district, on Kincheloe creek, this county, the South Penn has completed its test well on the J. M. White farm and has a 20 barrel producer in the fifth sand.

North of Salem, in the same county, the South Penn has a natural producer good for 30 barrels a day at its test well on the J. D. Law farm.

On the east side of the Folsom district, in this county, the South Penn has drilled its test well on the William Garrett farm 35 feet into the strata sand and has developed a strong gas pressure. Drilling has been suspended for the present.

Ordered His Own Head Off.

The great Count Saigo was an instructive example of the habit of mind of the Japanese. The count was in insurrection against his emperor in 1877 and was nearly in the toils, and he knew it, so in his stronghold he employed his leisure time in playing chess with his immediate friends. Reports kept coming in from the outposts, each one more disheartening than the last. But the count still went on playing chess, while the utmost good humor and pleasant gaiety continued among the whole party. Yet another messenger from the outposts came in, which left no doubt as to the situation. Still the count and his companions went on playing. "Your move, sir," were the words that broke the absorption of the moment. Then when there was a pause in the game at which he could rise without being discourteous to his guests the count got up and said "Gentlemen, now it is time." He directed some one to send for his sword bearer. The man advanced and immediately received his orders. A few seconds later Count Saigo's body and head had been separated at one heavy blow.

A Criminal Paradise.

Spain's criminal settlement in the Zafra islands is said to be quite a paradise of convicts. Their liberty is restricted only so far that they must not leave the islands and must return at night to prison unless they obtain leave of absence for the night. At 6 o'clock in the morning the convicts leave the prison. Some do a little work; but the majority go straight to the various wine shops and hosteries, where they pass the day drinking, slugging and occasionally breaking the monotony of life with a little kuffing. For each respectable prisoner carries his "face" (knife) day and night with him. This idle state of things appears less strange if one considers that the prison wardens—the "capataces"—are the liquor sellers of the islands and that a good deal of illicit trading is carried on in those places of resort. The prisoners buy revolvers, ammunition, housebreakers' tools and similar articles. —Chicago News.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Turpentine relieves cuts and wounds of all kinds.

A supper of boiled onions will do more toward breaking up a cold than will some medicines.

Beat the white of an egg with a piece of alum until it looks gelatinous and is stiff. Spread it on lint and lay on a sprain, changing as it becomes dry.

Do not use flour and molasses on a burn. The removal of flour or paste of any kind from a burn is torture, and the result is always doubtful, as it generally takes the skin off with it. Any good salve is better.

A good recipe for a lotion for weak, tired or inflamed eyes: Fifteen drops of spirits of camphor, one tablespoonful of powdered boracic acid, two-thirds of a cup of boiling water. Strain through muslin, cool and apply twice a day.

Monkeys' Antics.

Monkeys have a repertoire of pastimes to while away their days in captivity as changeable as a continental show. They are wonders in development ways and means for mischief as well as for entertainment. They are past masters in the art of stealing and are as restless as the waves of the sea. They are almost as sensitive as a flower and wither in drafts as easily. But they take a cheerful view of life and cut up all kinds of dildos from morning until night. Their lives they try to make one round of pleasure, as if they appreciated their shortness.

Arranging the hair. Don't you find the single rose behind the ear, when becoming the most charming of coiffures? Much depends upon the expression of the face, in which there must be a sentimental note to produce harmony. Otherwise do not attempt this arrangement, but gather the hair so as to create a triangular effect on the top of the head, taking the width from ear to ear at the base, or twist up your soft fluffy puffs with or without some short curled ends, or roll a pompadour so that there shall be no other line above it, the front hair alone being visible in an unbroken line.
